THE TWENTY-FIFTH REPORT

OF

THE DEPUTY KEEPER OF THE PUBLIC RECORDS.

TO THE QUEEN'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR MAJESTY,

IT is my duty to present to Your Majesty the Annual Report of the proceedings in the Public Record Office, for the year 1863.

I. FEES.

The Receipts in the Revenue Department of this Office have not been quite so large as in the preceding year; but this is owing to the increased number of persons who avail themselves of the privilege of using the Records for Literary purposes without the payment of fees. The subject of the payment of fees is one that requires re-consideration. It has engaged the serious attention of the Master of the Rolls, at whose suggestion Your Majesty's Government allowed Literary Inquirers to consult the Public Records gratuitously.

This gratuitous access has now been in operation 12 years, and has fully answered the most sanguine expectations. An opinion has, however, been entertained and expressed that it is unfair to allow to some a privilege which is denied to others.

It is objected that the Literary Inquirer can obtain gratuitous information from the Public Records, while the Legal Inquirer is compelled to pay for the information he requires, although he has either to defend or assert his right to property. This is considered an inequality and a grievance.

In answer to this, it must be considered that, unlike the Legal Inquirer, the Literary Inquirer very seldom derives any pecuniary profit from his labours. If he does, it is the exception, not the rule. Above all things this is rare in such works for which Records are generally consulted. Instead of bringing profit, they are frequently a great expense to their authors; and to these very publications the Legal Inquirer is more indebted for information than to any other source, and by them is frequently enabled to find the object of his search.

The Literary Searcher benefits the community at large, and for ages to come; the Legal Searcher benefits one individual, or at most a corporation.

Were it not for topographical and genealogical works, which could not be compiled without frequent reference to documents in the Public Record Office, the Legal Inquirer would be constantly at a loss, and would have to pay more than quadruple what he does at present for fees.

In its literary and topographical value there is no difference between a pedigree compiled by a county or local historian, and printed in his work, and a pedigree compiled by an amateur, and communicated to some genealogical volume; both add to the stock of that class of information. It is not the part of a wise and liberal government to determine the motives under which these or other literary works are undertaken.

It is objected that in some instances the Literary Inquirer abuses his privilege of free search by acting as a Record Agent, and sells the information thus obtained at a lower rate than the professional Record Agent, who is obliged to pay for the information he collects. It may be doubted whether any law would fully reach this evil, or whether any law which should attempt it would not inflict a much greater evil on the public than that which it professed to cure, by throwing obstacles in the way of using and consulting our Records which would be very undesirable. There is no certainty that the practice complained of exists, even supposing it were possible; but if it does, the remedy will be not to make the Records less free and accessible, but to place both parties on the same footing.

All applicants, therefore, whether for literary or legal purposes, should have the gratuitous use of the Calendars and Records, with full power to copy for themselves in ink or pencil, for the Record is just as liable to injury from one as the other, especially in regard to the material of which pencils are composed; but if copies are required to be made by the officers of the Establishment, those copies ought to be paid for.

By this arrangement the country would lose in fees a sum too insignificant to mention when compared with the good which would be effected, by the abolition of those fees and the simplifying of the present system by the reduction of labour in the Office, to say nothing of the great boon which would thus be granted to the public. Against this act of liberality it may be urged that the number of searchers would be so much increased that further accommodation and a larger staff of officers would be needed to meet the requirements. Such an increase, however, need not be apprehended, but if it took place the Lords Commissioners of Your Majesty's Treasury would no doubt increase the staff were the necessity apparent. It would justify the importance of such an establishment in the public mind, by making the nation better acquainted with its archæological treasures, and more interested in their preservation and use.

The following Table shows the particulars of the Fees received in 1863, and the total amount received from the establishment of the Office on its present basis in 1840 :—

Searches.	—	Inspections.	—	Authenticated Copies.	—	Attendances.	—	Amount of Fees in 1863.	Total Amount of Fees paid into the Exchequer since 1840.

This Table, however, only represents the amount of business in 1863 for which Fees have been paid, 4,303 persons having attended the Legal Search Office. To these must be added, the Searches and Inspections of Literary Inquirers, the business on behalf of Government Departments, the operations of the Commissioners of Patents, and the Attendances on Foreclosure of Mortgages, for none of which Fees are paid. As regards these sources of business, the Literary Inquirers' Attendances, &c., will be found in the following section (II.), while the Searches, &c., on behalf of Government Departments have been as follow :—

NUMBER of SEARCHES, INSPECTIONS, ISSUES, and RETURNS of GOVERNMENT PAPERS for GOVERNMENT DEPARTMENTS in 1863.

In the year 1863, 137 Rolls were produced to the Officers of the Commissioners of Patents, from which they took copies of specifications and plans. (See Twenty-fourth Report, § I.)

The particulars of the business connected with Attendances on Foreclosures of Mortgages in the Rolls Chapel Office, in 1863, are as follow (in continuation of the account given in the Twenty-fourth Report, § I.) :—

II. LITERARY INQUIRIES.

In addition to the details in the preceding section (I.), the following is the amount of business in the year 1863 with respect to Literary Inquirers, who are allowed to consult the Records without payment of Fees:—

Number of Literary Inquirers.	Number of Attendances.	Number of Documents used.
174 (of whom 113 were new Applications, and 20 were Renewed).	2,354	12,516 (exclusive of Calendars, Catalogues, Repertories, Inventories, and Indexes).

By a letter from the Lords Commissioners of Your Majesty's Treasury, dated 11th November 1862, the Master of the Rolls was requested to allow Searches, &c., to be made gratuitously by one of the Record Officers, relative to the History of Prices in England during the Middle Ages, required by the Rev. J. E. T. Rogers, Professor of Political Economy at Oxford. A Senior Clerk was consequently appointed to assist Professor Rogers, and has since continued almost entirely to be occupied thereon, and his Searches are not yet finished.

The total number of Literary Inquirers from 1st January 1852 (when they were first admitted without payment of Fees) to 31st December 1863, their Attendances, and the numbers of Documents consulted by them, are as follow:—

Number of Literary Inquirers.	Number of Attendances.	Number of Documents used.
1,408	17,925	128,299 (exclusive of Calendars, Catalogues, Repertories, Inventories, and Indexes).

Lists of the subjects for which the Records have been consulted from 1852 to 1862, were submitted to Your Majesty in my Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Reports; and I have now the honour to submit a similar List for the year 1863:—

III. REMOVALS OF RECORDS TO THE RECORD REPOSITORY.

In the course of the year 1863, six Warrants were issued by the Master of the Rolls, countersigned by the Lord Chancellor in the usual way, for reception into the Public Record Office, of the Accruing Records of the Courts of Common Law, &c., generally to Michaelmas Term 1842, with some slight exceptions, as, for instance, the Records of the Registrar of Acknowledgments of the Court of Common Pleas, which have been received to Michaelmas Term 1852.

The annual transfers of the Chancery Rolls to the Public Record Office have also taken place during the year. It was formerly the custom to transfer the Patent Rolls, the Bundles of Writs of Privy Seal, &c., for each year, from the Chancery Enrolment Office to the Petty Bag Office, and thence, after the expiration of ten years, to the Public Record Office; but as this transfer to the Petty Bag Office was of no real advantage, the Master of the Rolls, by Order of 1st June 1863, directed that the Patent Rolls, &c., then in the Petty Bag Office, should be deposited in the Public Record Office, and this has been accordingly done (§ XI.). Arrangements have also been made for the future Accruing Patent Rolls, &c., being transferred annually from the Enrolment Office to the Public Record Office, as soon as completed.

In the Twenty-second Report (§ 25), it is stated that the Registrar of the High Court of Admiralty was desirous of removing some of the older Papers belonging to his Department to the Public Record Office, and that they had been examined accordingly. On the 7th October 1863, the Registrar informed the Master of the Rolls that, with a view to the transfer of the Documents in question, he had, for a considerable time past, been engaged, as opportunity offered, in arranging those Papers which could most readily be spared from his Office, and that he was prepared to transfer to the Public Record Office the following classes:—

1. The Papers in Contested Causes, 1803 to 1810, inclusive; the Papers in Uncontested Causes, for that period, having been transferred on 31st October 1825, and 17th November 1828.

2. About 872 Bound Volumes, containing the Processes or Copies of the Papers in Causes heard before the Court of Delegates, between 1609 and 1823, when the Court was abolished.

The Documents were accordingly received on 29th and 30th October 1863. On the 18th December 1863, the Registrar informed the Master of the Rolls that a further portion of Documents were arranged for removal to the Public Record Office. They were of the following classes:—

1. Papers in the Contested and Uncontested Prize Causes, instituted subsequently to 1810, and relating to the War which terminated in 1814, numbered from 1 to 2848.

2. Papers in Prize Causes, arising out of the War of 1815, numbered from 1 to 108.

3. Papers in the Prize Appeal Causes which occurred in and subsequent to 1803.

The Registrar requested that these Documents might be received, and directions were given accordingly. The removal having taken place after the close of the year 1863, the particulars will be given in the next Report.

Pursuant to Letters from the War Office, dated 2nd and 22nd January 1863, further Transfers of Records, belonging to that Office have taken place, the particulars of which are hereafter given (§ XI.).

IV. DOMESDAY BOOK, FAC-SIMILE OF, BY PROCESS OF PHOTOZINCOGRAPHY.

In my Twenty-third Report (§ IV.), and in my Twenty-fourth Report (§ IV.), the particulars were submitted to Your Majesty of the operations, under the direction of Colonel Sir Henry James, R.E., at the Ordnance Survey Office, Southampton, in making fac-similes for publication, and sale, by the process of Photozincography, of Domesday Book. For this purpose two Assistant Keepers of Records were severally detached from their usual duties in London, and remained at Southampton, in charge of Domesday Book, for the following periods:—Mr. Burtt, from 4th to 14th February 1861, and from 20th November 1861 to 7th January 1862; Mr. Sanders, from 6th January 1862 to 23rd December 1863, when the work was completed. In the Twenty-fourth Report is given the Report of Mr. Sanders for the year 1862; and his Report for the year 1863 is as follows:—

Her Majesty's Record Office,
January 13, 1864.

Sir,

The taking of the fac-simile of both Volumes of Domesday Book by Colonel Sir Henry James' process of Photozincography being now completed, I have the honour to send you the following Report of the work upon which I have been engaged at Southampton in connection therewith during the past year.

The printing of the copy of the first Volume was finished in April last, and on the 8th of that month I delivered the original into your hands at Southampton, immediately after which the fac-simile of the second Volume was commenced. The process employed upon this Volume being nearly identical with that used in copying the first, a short account of which I had the honour of submitting to you in my Report of January 6th, 1863, it will be unnecessary for me to go again into detail; the only difference being that, whereas in the former case the negatives of the whole were taken before the chromo-carbon prints were prepared and transferred to the zinc plates, in the latter all these processes were performed simultaneously. By this arrangement, the result of experience, both time and labour were somewhat saved. The second Volume also being so much smaller in size, it was possible to obtain the photographs of two pages at once, on the same size glass plate which had only sufficed for one of the first; while the difference in the amount of rubrication made that portion of the work less laborious, though not to the extent of saving double printing, which was still found to be necessary.

The plan of exposing the original pages in a frame faced with plate glass, thick enough to bear considerable pressure, was continued till the negatives of the whole were taken, without any diminution of success, and the MS. preserved from injury that might have been caused by dust, damp, or the action of powerful sunlight on its undefended surface. When taken from the frame in the hottest weather, the pages were found to be as cool and unwrinkled as before exposure; and I think that without this defence the heat would have caused a distortion of the letters sufficient to have rendered the obtaining of an accurate copy of any MS. on parchment by photography very difficult if not impossible.

Though the second Volume appears to, and does in some respects, present fewer difficulties to the photographer than the first, it was found to possess one from which the latter was comparatively free. If narrowly examined with a lens, the characters appear broken in many instances by minute specks of white, where the ink has not taken the parchment under the pen of the original scribe; and this was of course much magnified in the copy by the greater contrast between the ink and paper; by careful attention to the exposure, however, and the printing both of the chromo-carbon and zinc transfers, this unsightly defect was much diminished. In other cases, especially the concluding pages, the parchment is so extremely thin, and the back writing so plainly visible upon the front page, that at first it seemed nearly hopeless that a tolerable negative could be got; and it was not till after two or three efforts that success was obtained.

The chromo-carbon prints of the first pages were sent to me on the 9th of April, and I submitted the final proof of the last to Sir Henry James on the 22nd of December. This Volume has therefore been finished in nine months.

In looking back upon the whole, I am impressed with the magnitude of the work. The number of copies printed of each of the 35 counties in Domesday Book was originally limited to 300, and as these contain in the aggregate about 1,800 pages, it will be seen that, taking no account of the photographing, transferring, &c., above 500,000 pages have been printed; which number is increased by the double printing in red to more than 1,000,000. In addition to this number, some of the counties, such as Cornwall, Somersetshire, and Cheshire, have gone through a second edition, which is also in demand for Hampshire, and there appears to be reason for thinking that the ultimate demand for copies of all the counties will exceed the number published, and the sale leave a considerable profit upon the cost of the work.

I left Southampton on the 23rd of December last, and returned the second Volume into the Record Office the same morning; but before quitting the subject, I may be perhaps permitted to add a few words upon my temporary connection with the Ordnance Survey Office. Of the admirable manner in which that important National Institution is conducted under the direction of Sir Henry James, and of the services rendered to science by himself and his Officers, it is unnecessary for me to speak, further than to observe, that there is probably no other Establishment in Europe where such a work as that just completed could have been undertaken and brought to a successful conclusion; but I think it due to them to mention those subordinate members of it who have been employed in the reproduction of Domesday Book more immediately in connection with myself. Of these, Mr. Rudolph Appel, the Chief Zincographic Printer, by whom the copies were transferred and printed, Serjeant James M'Donald, the Head Non-commissioned Officer attached to the Photographic Branch of the Establishment under Captain Helsham Jones, under whose inspection the negatives were taken, and Lance-Corporal Cousens, by whom the chromo-carbon prints were personally prepared, are the principal, and to them much credit is owing for the manner in which they successfully encountered the frequent demands made upon their skill and care during the progress of the work. From the zeal and application of Lance-Corporal Palmer I derived great assistance in the task of collation and correction, and I can adduce no stronger proof of the energy with which he entered upon a subject so entirely new to him, than by recalling your attention to the hand fac-simile of a page of Domesday written by him, which I sent a short time ago for your inspection. I have seen nothing from the hand of the most expert fac-similist superior to this; and I am glad to find my own opinion supported by the more valuable testimony of your own experience.

I inclose with this an abstract of the various processes employed during the copying of both Volumes, in order that the amount of work done may be more directly brought to your observation; and to this is added a table kept by me during the photographing of the second Volume, showing the times of exposure, state of the atmosphere, barometrical readings, &c.

I cannot conclude my Report without recording my gratitude to Sir Henry James and Colonel Cameron for the unvarying kindness shown me by them, and the pleasure with which I look back to my temporary attachment to the Ordnance Survey Office.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your obedient Servant,
(Signed) WILLIAM BASEVI SANDERS,
Assistant Keeper of H. M. Records.

The Deputy Keeper of the Public Records.

V. EXAMINATION OF GOVERNMENT DOCUMENTS.

In the Twenty-fourth Report (§ V.), is stated the progress made by the Committee appointed to examine the Government Documents in the Public Record Office during the year 1862, and that the Committee had, 11th December 1862, commenced the inquiry into the Commissariat Records, the second class of the Treasury Records. On these Documents, the Committee made a Report, dated the 24th July 1863, and recommended that about three-fourths should be destroyed. The Master of the Rolls, 30th July 1863, transmitted to the Lords Commissioners of Your Majesty's Treasury his opinion upon the recommendations of the Committee, and suggested that the Commissariat Papers intended to be preserved should be thrown open to the Public to the end of the reign of George III., 1820, in the same manner as the Treasury Board Papers. The Master of the Rolls also proposed, that the Committee should next report upon the third class of the Treasury Records, namely, the Records of the Treasury Solicitor. In reply, the Lords of Your Majesty's Treasury, 21st August 1863, notified the approval of Your Majesty's Secretary of State for War to the proposals in the Report of the Committee, and added that they would communicate again with the Master of the Rolls on the proposal for examining the Papers belonging to the Department of the Treasury Solicitor.

VI. CALENDARS.

The formation of Calendars to the National Muniments is a subject of great importance, and occupies a prominent clause in the Public Record Act. I have had the honour to bring the matter to Your Majesty's notice in my Annual Reports; but it is of too much consequence not to be kept constantly in view. No one contends that Calendars answer no practical purposes; there might be better ground for argument that the Public Records are worthless, as they would be unless their contents were made serviceable to all classes of society.

The only difference of opinion on the matter seems to be as to the mode in which the Calendars ought to be constructed; in other words, whether they should be compendious or not. A compendious Calendar, which is little more than an Inventory, is well adapted to official purposes merely, but a full Calendar details in as few words as possible the information contained in the Document, without note or comment, leaving the reader to make his own inferences. The information of course must be accurate, otherwise it would be worse than useless, because an inaccurate Calendar misleads an inquirer, a thing of all others to be avoided. Besides the careful compilation of a Calendar, there is another step necessary to ensure its utility, viz., publication, for without publication, a Calendar would be useless to the public; a bulk of manuscript is very inconvenient and unwieldly, liable to injury in a short time if much consulted, and persons resident in the country or abroad would be debarred from a knowledge of its contents. The plan laid down by the Master of the Rolls, and followed in all Calendars compiled under his sanction, is the best and most economical on the whole that has been devised.

In my Twenty-fourth Report to Your Majesty (§ VI.), I stated that, in order more effectually to prosecute the compilation of Calendars, a distinct Department had been formed for that purpose in this Office. An Assistant Keeper was placed at the head of this important division, and instructed to bring into as perfect a state as possible, the Calendars in the Search Rooms, by correcting errors and supplying, in interleaved copies, all deficiencies, and when any Calendar was too defective to allow of such a remedial process, to commence a new Calendar of the Records to which it refers. He was also to inform the Deputy Keeper whether he considered it advisable to make a Calendar to any series of Documents (not already calendared) which was frequently consulted by the Public. Twelve officers were placed under the direction of the chief of the Calendaring Department, to be employed upon calendaring except when their services were otherwise urgently required. A list of the Calendars in process of formation, and a notice of the extent to which they have been completed in 1863, will be found in another section (§ XIV.). A Calendar of the Bills and Answers, &c., in Equity, in the Exchequer of Chester, for the counties of Chester and Flint, for the reigns of Henry VIII., Edward VI., and Philip and Mary, is appended to my present Report (App. No. 2). I also annex (App. No. 1) a Calendar of Crown Leases, from 33 to 38 Hen. VIII., contained in a Volume among the Miscellaneous Books in the Augmentation Office in the Exchequer, of lands under the survey of the Court of General Surveyors, being the Enrolment Book of Crown Leases, kept pursuant to the Statute 33 Hen. VIII. c. 39. s. 6. I also submit to Your Majesty (App. No. 3), an alphabetical List or Index to Inquisitions in the Counties of Chester and Flint, extracted from the Welsh Records, commencing with the reign of Edward I. These Calendars, I have reason to believe, will be very useful to the public.

The Calendar of Treasury Records in course of compilation pursuant to the directions of the Lords Commissioners of Your Majesty's Treasury (Twenty-fourth Report, § VI.), has been continued, and a specimen of the Calendar for the year 1693 was submitted to their Lordships, 14th December 1863, and approved.

In the Appendix to my Twenty-fourth Report, was given a List of the Calendars and Indexes, &c., in the Public Record Office, at the end of the year 1862. In the Appendix to this Report (App. No. 5), is given a List of such Calendars and Indexes as were added to the series in the year 1863, together with some corrections to the previous List. In order to give greater facilities to the Public, I have, in some instances, caused copies to be made of certain Calendars or Indexes in the British Museum relating to Records in this Office, and have placed them in the Search Office.

The Lords Commissioners of Your Majesty's Treasury having expressed a desire that a List of the Lords High Treasurers and the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury should be compiled from their Patents of appointment, such List, from the accession of Henry VII. to the present date, has been made, and is submitted to Your Majesty with this Report (App. No. 4).

Since my last Report, the following Calendars have been published for sale, in continuation of former volumes of the series:—

Calendar of State Papers, Domestic Series, of the Reign of Charles I., preserved in Her Majesty's Public Record Office. Edited by John Bruce, Esq., F.S.A. Vol. VI. 1633–1634.

Calendar of State Papers, Domestic Series, of the Reign of Charles II., preserved in Her Majesty's Public Record Office. Edited by Mary Anne Everett Green. Vol. IV. 1664–1665.

Calendar of State Papers, Foreign Series, of the Reign of Elizabeth. Edited by the Rev. Joseph Stevenson, M.A., of University College, Durham. Vol. I. 1558–1559.

Mr. Bruce's volume, being the sixth devoted to the Reign of Charles I., refers to Papers dated between April 1633 and April 1634. In consequence of a large number of Admiralty Documents, which had previously formed a separate collection, having been incorporated with the main series of the "Domestic Papers," the greater portion of the present volume refers to the State of the Navy, and constitutes a series of materials for the Naval History of England during a most important period. The Miscellaneous Papers in this volume are of more than ordinary interest. They refer to a portion of the period during which, according to Lord Clarendon, "this kingdom enjoyed the greatest calm and the "fullest measure of felicity that any people, in any age, for so "long together, were ever blessed with." Mr. Bruce, in an interesting preface, points out various points and leading events of our History, which the Papers in this volume illustrate. The character and conduct, both public and private, of Archbishop Laud, during the first months of his tenure of the Primacy of all England, are especially prominent and conspicuous.

Mrs. Green's volume of the Papers of the years 1664–1665, like that of Mr. Bruce's, refers chiefly to Naval affairs; but it also contains much miscellaneous information illustrative of the History of the year to which it refers.

Mr. Stevenson's first volume of the Calendar of State Papers (Foreign Series), of the reign of Queen Elizabeth, was published during the summer of last year. It embraces the Documents which range between the accession of the Queen, 17th November 1558, and 30th September 1559. These Papers are of the highest importance for the Political and Ecclesiastical History, not only of England, but of nearly the whole of the Continent. They are not confined to the Series of Papers preserved in the Public Record Office, but extend to all those Mr. Stevenson could obtain access to, which at one time belonged to the Public Collection, but had been removed thence, for some cause not known.

The under-mentioned volumes are in the press, or in preparation for printing:—

In my Twenty-fourth Report (§ VI.), I submitted to Your Majesty some remarks on the general importance of the formation of Calendars and Indexes, especially with reference to the beforementioned Calendars. In connexion therewith, and with reference to the Calendars in formation, I beg leave further to remark that,—

Since the publication of the First Volume of Mr. Brewer's Catalogue in February 1862, the preparation and editing of the Second Volume has engaged his constant attention. Notwithstanding the large amount of time and labour that had already been expended in the preliminary arrangement and cataloguing of the materials, the passing of the work through the press has been protracted, not only by the exceeding bulk of the materials but by the constant necessity of reference to the original MSS., a peculiarly large proportion of which, during the period embraced in this volume, is in the British Museum and have been mutilated by the Cottonian fire. Nevertheless the volume is now far advanced towards completion; the Index and the Preface are already in type. Its contents will be more full and interesting than those of its predecessor. The correspondence is found in much greater abundance than in the earlier years of the reign, while at the same time there is a diminution of those more formal documents, which, though equally indispensable to history, serve the purposes of persons having special subjects of inquiry more frequently than those of the general historian.

The period to which the Volume relates is from the beginning of the year 1515 to the end of 1518. The number of documents is 4702, besides a supplement, an abstract of the King's household books, accounts of the Revels at Court, and other matters. The length to which the volume has extended has made it necessary to divide it into two parts, which together embrace the history of the four years from the death of Louis XII. of France to that of the Emperor Maximilian.

No four years during the whole period of the reign of Henry VIII. stood in greater need of illustration. Not only the dispersion of the documents, but the large amount of mutilation already alluded to, effectually discouraged the student from attempting to gain a knowledge of the times from the most authentic sources, otherwise the transactions of those four years, when Henry VIII., Francis I., and Charles V. (as he was afterwards called), were all young sovereigns, foreshadowing each at the commencement of his career the character it should finally assume, could not but have attracted much more general attention. The Volume opens with a complete change in the aspect of foreign politics. Louis XII. died on the 1st of January 1515. The young English princess, Henry's sister, to whom he had been hardly three months married, was left a widow in a foreign land. The great political alliance fell to the ground, and doubts and anxieties prevailed as to the disposition of the new king Francis. The embassy of the duke of Suffolk to France immediately followed; and it is highly interesting to trace, in Suffolk's letters, how the French king seized upon the opportunity to lull the suspicions of the English, and won over the affections of the envoy by promoting his marriage with the widowed Queen. But the interest centres in Suffolk himself when the marriage has been actually performed, and he is obliged to make the awkward confession to Henry. Soon afterwards Francis again engages the chief attention of the reader, and, notwithstanding his professions of entente cordiale, England still looks upon his motions with uneasiness. Much will be found about the countenance given by him to Richard De la Pole, the pretender to the English throne; and the sending, in spite of strong remonstrance, the Duke of Albany into Scotland to assume the government of that country. By this event, Henry's sister Margaret was divested of her authority and compelled to take refuge in England. The Scotch correspondence is more than usually copious, and enters into a number of details connected with the history of Scotland hitherto unknown. Then follows the expedition of Francis into Italy to recover the duchy of Milan, his conferences with the Pope at Bologna, and return to France.

During the same period England was engaged in subsidising the Swiss, and Richard Pace, well known to the readers of Shakespeare, was employed for his singular ability in negotiating a league.

The inglorious retreat of the Emperor brings this part of the volume to a close.

By the death of Ferdinand the Catholic, in 1516, the inheritance of Spain descended to his grandson Charles. The English Commissioners in Flanders, whose chief care up to this time had been to settle the disputes relative to the intercourse of English merchants, were enjoined to watch narrowly the conferences going on at Noyon.

The Emperor affecting to be displeased, enters into engagements with England to visit the Low Countries and remove the councillors of his grandson. The journey forms a pretext for demanding money from England; this and the violation of his promises are minutely detailed in the despatches of Pace and Wingfield.

The correspondence with Flanders contains much new information touching the long-delayed preparations for Charles' going into Spain, and his arrangements for the government of the Low Countries; with these documents, the negotiations of Francis I. for the surrender of Tournay, and the marriage of the infant princess Mary to the Dauphin, the second part of the volume draws to a close.

Turning to domestic events, the Cardinalate of Wolsey, his Legatine authority, his great influence with Henry, as shown by the letters which passed between Pace and Wolsey in 1518, the insurrection of Evil May Day, the progress and ravages of the Sweating Sickness, the preparations for a Crusade, and the sale of Indulgences, receive ample illustration from this volume. Nor must the preparations made by the Knights of Rhodes, for their heroic defence against the Turks, and the advances of that power in Syria and Egypt, be entirely overlooked.

These are some of the main topics treated of in these volumes: to enumerate them all would too much extend these remarks.

The forthcoming volume of the Calendar of Charles I. carries on the history of the period during some very important changes. The deaths of Lord Treasurer Portland, of Sir Robert Naunton (Master of the Court of Wards), of Attorney General Noy, and of Lord Chief Justice Richardson, with the dismissal of Lord Chief Justice Heath, introduced a much more energetic policy on the part of the Government. The Treasury was placed in Commission, Archbishop Laud being the Chief Commissioner, and active measures were resorted to for the increase of the revenue. Of these measures, the most important were the revival of the Forest Laws and the issuing of the first writ for Ship Money. On both these subjects the volume contains much information, it might indeed be designated, "The Volume of the First Writ for Ship Money." That writ differed materially from the third writ, which was called in question by Hampden. Its whole history is here detailed. Its preparation, the settlement of questions relating to it personally by the King, its issue, its reception by the people, the money it produced, and the strong fleet set forth in consequence, are subjects which are here minutely illustrated. Besides the persons already named, the volume also contains papers hitherto unknown respecting Sir Edward Coke (who died at that period), Hampden, Selden, Lord Wentworth (afterwards Strafford), Lord Chief Justice Finch, Sir Henry Wotton, Lord Herbert of Cherbury, and many others.

Mr. Stevenson's second volume of the reign of Elizabeth is nearly printed, and its publication will follow in the course of a few months. It will include the documents from the beginning of October 1559, to about the middle of 1560. A considerable portion of its contents is occupied with the progress of the English campaign against the French in Scotland, which terminated with the treaty of Leith. The growing extent of the Foreign Series has rendered it expedient to limit the work within its strictest bounds, namely, the Papers extant in the Public Record Office. In future therefore Mr. Stevenson will confine his Calendar to these Papers only; but directing the reader's attention in foot notes to any document which exists elsewhere, if such at any time has formed a portion of the National Series.

Mr. Bergenroth is assiduously employed in the preparation of his second volume of the Papers and Documents in the Archives of Simancas, relative to the history of this country. His work there has been much more difficult, and occupied much more time, than he had anticipated. One of the principal causes of his difficulty arises from the circumstance that the series "Inglaterra" contains, as far as the reign of Charles V. is concerned, comparatively few documents relating to England, consequently the papers bearing on our history must be collected from various other series, such as those of Castilla, Roma, Alemania, &c.; Castilla alone containing, in the reign of Charles V., about 30,000 despatches from ambassadors and instructions to diplomatic agents. No choice is consequently left to Mr. Bergenroth but to examine with equal care each series.

Mr. Rawdon Brown's Calendar of Documents relating to England in the Italian Archives will be published early in this present year. It abounds with curious and valuable matter relative to our early commerce and trade with Venice and the Italian States. Appended to his volume are ten tables compiled with considerable pains. They will be very valuable and useful to Students and Historians.

VIII. REPORT UPON THE CARTE AND CAREW PAPERS.

The Lords Commissioners of Your Majesty's Treasury being desirous of ascertaining what Documents relating to Ireland are in the Carte Collection in the Bodleian Library at Oxford and among the Carew Manuscripts in the Archiepiscopal Library at Lambeth, with a view of enabling their Lordships to judge whether it would be desirable to make a Calendar of those Papers, or to have any of them printed at the public expense, a minute examination of the Papers and Manuscripts in question was made during the months of August and October 1863, and a Report on the subject to the Master of the Rolls. This Report, at the suggestion of the Master of the Rolls, has been printed, by the direction of their Lordships, for sale; and it will show that Your Majesty's Government has not been unmindful of the wishes expressed by the Irish nation to have the materials for Irish history collected, and if expedient published, at the public expense.

IX. NEW BLOCK OF RECORD REPOSITORY.

The urgent necessity that existed for the immediate erection of another block of the Record Repository is stated in the Twenty-third Report (§ VIII.), and the determination of the Treasury to erect a portion of the block is stated in the Twenty-fourth Report (§ VIII.). It also mentioned in the last Report that Mr. Pennethorne, the Architect of the Record Repository, had been directed by Your Majesty's First Commissioner of Works to prepare the necessary plans, and that the plans had been approved by the Master of the Rolls. An estimate of the expense was accordingly submitted to Parliament, and an instalment of the sum required for the erection of the portion of the new block was voted. The additional accommodation which will be afforded by the erection of this portion of the building will be as follows:—

A Literary Search Room, 44 ft. 9 in. diameter, and 46 ft. high.
A Legal Search Room, 60 ft. long, and 26 ft. wide.
A Copying Office, 60 ft. long, and 26 ft. wide.
Offices for the Calendaring Department, &c.
Several other smaller Offices, &c.

The rooms at present occupied for these purposes are to be converted into Record Rooms.

The operations in digging the foundation commenced on 18th June 1863. The works are contracted to be completed before Lady Day 1865. The drains and foundations are already finished, and the internal walls carried up nearly to a level with the street.

X. RECORDS NOT YET RECEIVED INTO THE PUBLIC RECORD OFFICE.

The whole of the Records mentioned in the preamble of the "Act for keeping safely the Public Records" have been brought into the custody of the Master of the Rolls, with the following exceptions:—

(1.) The Records in the Petty Bag Office.
(2.) The Records in the Office of the Land Revenue and Enrolments, or of the late Auditor of the Land Revenues of England and Wales.
(3.) The Records belonging to the Court of Chancery, in part.
(4.) The Records belonging to the Court of Admiralty, in part.
(5.) The Records of the Palatinate of Durham.
(6.) The Records of the Palatinate of the Isle of Ely.

I now proceed to state the reasons which have hitherto prevented the Master of the Rolls from fully carrying out the provisions of the Public Records Act, as regards the Records above-mentioned.

(1.) The Records in the Petty Bag Office.—Since the Public Records Act came into operation, the Petty Bag Office has been governed by an Act passed in the 11th and 12th years of Your Majesty's reign, c. 94, which enacts (§ 35) that the Master of the Rolls may from time to time make such rules, orders, and regulations for the transfer, care, and custody of the Records, Documents, and Proceedings in the Petty Bag Office as to him shall seem fit and proper. The expediency of transferring such Records to the Public Record Office has not yet been decided upon, principally on account of want of accommodation in the Record Repository. In December 1859, however, a portion of the Records, viz., the Indentures of Returns of Members of Parliament to 3 Victoria, and the Records of the late Cursitors' Office, were received into the Public Record Office.

(2.) The Records in the Office of the Land Revenue and Enrolments, or of the late Auditor of the Land Revenues of England and Wales.—Peculiar circumstances attending these Records, which though, as before mentioned, specially placed by the Record Act under the charge and superintendence of the Master of the Rolls, have not yet been brought into his possession, render it expedient to give some particulars relating to their character, nature, and place of deposit. The Office of Land Revenue Records and Enrolments was established pursuant to the Statute 2 William IV. cap. 1, entitled "An Act for uniting the Office of the Surveyor General of His Majesty's Works and Public Buildings with the Office of the Commissioners of His Majesty's Woods, Forests, and Land Revenues; and for other Purposes relating to the Land Revenues." The Act abolishes the Office of Auditor of the Land Revenue, and directs the Treasury to provide a proper building or buildings in London or Westminster, to be called "The Office of Land Revenue Records and Enrolments," for the reception and safe custody of all the books of entry, records, deeds, instruments, writings, maps, plans, and other official papers deposited in the offices, or which ought to be in the custody, of the Auditors of the Land Revenues in England or Wales; and also for the reception and safe custody of such deeds and instruments as should be thereafter enrolled in pursuance of the directions therein-after contained. And by the Act of the 14th and 15th of Your Majesty's reign, cap. 42, the powers of the beforementioned Board, in relation to the Commissioners of Your Majesty's Woods, Forests, and Land Revenues are performed as such last-mentioned Act directs. The first-recited Act abovementioned empowers Your Majesty's Treasury to appoint a proper person to be the Keeper of the Records and Enrolments in question, and to make rules and regulations for the execution of the duties of the office of Keeper. The Documents in his custody consist of two classes: (1), Records which, according to the course of business, are accruing and increasing in the Office; (2), Records belonging to classes more or less ancient or modern, of which the formation is discontinued, which no longer accrue or increase, or which are no longer transmitted to the Office.

The following are the Records in the two classes:—

Accruing Records.

Books of Enrolments of Grants from the Crown, &c.
Rentals.
Court Rolls of Crown Manors.
Enrolments of Treasury Warrants.
Declared Accounts of Commissioners of Woods, Forests, &c.
Declared Accounts of Receivers, &c.
&c. &c.

Non-Accruing Records.

Common Entry Books.
Surveys of Crown Property.
Forfeited Estates' Accounts.
Parliamentary Surveys of Crown Lands.
Particulars of Leases and Sales of Crown Lands.
Queens-Dowagers' Accounts.
Auditors' Reports.
Ministers' Accounts.
" " Drafts.
Debet Books.
Receivers' Accounts.
Cofferers' Accounts, &c.
Accounts of the Commissioners of the Alienation Office.
Assessed Taxes Accounts.
Accounts of the Receivers of the Land Tax.
&c. &c.

It is submitted that it is expedient that portions of the above-mentioned Records should be deposited in the charge of the Master of the Rolls. It would, perhaps, be inconvenient to remove the Enrolment Books, which must, from their nature, be frequently required for reference during the existence of the leases enrolled therein, and of which many go back far beyond the period of 20 years. Observations of an analogous nature apply to the current rentals, embracing the present revenue. It is part of the duties of the Keeper of the Land Revenue Records to make out and keep a correct rental of the revenues of Your Majesty's Crown, and to give the same from time to time in charge to the various officers engaged in the collection thereof. It therefore seems that the materials which the Keeper must frequently have occasion to consult should not be removed from his custody, and that he should retain all the books in which unexpired leases are enrolled, and all documents connected therewith; and in the same manner it may be expedient that he should retain the modern Court Rolls. But these reasons do not appear to apply to any of the Records and Documents, whether books or rolls, containing matters anterior to the beginning of the existing leases, belonging to the class of non-accruing Records. All these ancient rolls and books are in character entirely similar to the Records of the same description in the Record Repository. They are parts and portions of the same classes, sets, or series, and in every respect require the same arrangement, repairs, and management. Searches amongst Records in the Land Revenue Office most frequently need to be completed by searches in the Record Office, and vice versâ; and it will be for the benefit of Your Majesty, as well as of Your Majesty's subjects, that the Records should be consolidated and united under the custody of the Master of the Rolls. This view of the matter is supported by the transfer made in 1800 of the Ministers' Accounts from the Auditors' Office to the Augmentation Office, which transfer was intended to be complete, but has remained imperfect; so that at present the series is incomplete in both Repositories. The transfer alluded to, took place under the following circumstances:—The Commissioners on the Public Records, 22 July 1800, ordered that the Ministers' Accounts in the Offices of the Auditors of the Land Revenue should be transferred to the Augmentation Office, and that the Records of the Duchy of Lancaster and Duchy of Cornwall, in the Augmentation Office, should be also transferred to the respective Offices to which they relate; and in the Report made by the said Commissioners on Public Records to His Majesty in Council, dated the 23rd March 1801, it is certified that the transfer of the Ministers' Accounts between the Augmentation Office, the Auditors of the Land Revenue, the Duchy of Cornwall, and the Duchy of Lancaster was completed. Pursuant to this Order, above 4,000 Rolls were removed from the Land Revenue Office to the Augmentation Office, and are now among the Augmentation Office Records in the Record Repository. It was evidently intended that such removal should have embraced the whole of the Ministers' Accounts, but, from some cause not explained, several were left behind.

Various communications to the Land Revenue Office ensued, 1841–1843, to and from the Record Department and the Commissioners of Woods and Forests, and also with the Lords of the Treasury, whose approval is required by the Record Act, for the purpose of effecting the removal of the Land Revenue Records to the Public Record Office, but no definite results followed.

It may now, however, become a matter of consideration, should additional accommodation be afforded to the Department by the erection of the East wing of the Record Repository before alluded to (§ IX.), whether it may not be expedient to put in operation the provisions of the Record Act, and to remove the Land Revenue Records to the Record Repository, in order to incorporate them with those of a similar character, perhaps leaving those of a modern date required for constant consultation in the charge of the Commissioners of Woods and Forests. And this arrangement would be rendered more complete, and the consolidation of the ancient Records more effectual, if, at the same time, the Records of a similar description now in the Offices of the Duchy of Lancaster (which the Chancellor of the Duchy is prepared to place in the custody of the Master of the Rolls, if the Treasury approve of the step,) and of the Duchy of Cornwall, were also transferred to the Record Repository, and placed under the direction and control of the Master of the Rolls. On this subject, a correspondence has taken place between the Duchy of Lancaster and the Master of the Rolls, as regards the Records of the Duchy of Lancaster, which has been referred to Your Majesty's Treasury.

(3.) The Records belonging to the Court of Chancery (in part).—The Records of the following Chancery Offices being very bulky or connected with current business, and the space in the Record Repository being very limited, no proceedings have yet been taken with respect to them, except partially as respects the Enrolment Office (§ III.):—

Hanaper Office.
Crown Office.
Subpœna Office.
Examiners' Office.
Accountant-General's Office.
Affidavit Office.
Registrars' Office.
Office of Reports and Entries.
Great Seal Offices.
Masters in Lunacy Office.
Visitors of Lunatics' Office.
Registrar in Lunacy Office.
Office of Clerks of Records and Writs.
Enrolment Office.
Masters' in Chancery Office.

(4.) The Records belonging to the Court of Admiralty (in part).—A return was made upon the passing of the Record Act by the Deputy Registrar of the Admiralty Court, concerning the Records of the Admiralty Instance Court, and the Admiralty Prize Court, which had accrued since, or not been transmitted in, the years 1811, 1824, and 1828, when transfers of portions were made to the Tower of London. From the peculiar nature of these Courts, and also from the deficiency of accommodation, it has not been considered expedient to apply to the Judge of the Court of Admiralty for the transfer of these Documents; but certain transfers from the Registrar of the Court of Admiralty have taken place, mentioned in a previous section (§ III.), and other transfers are in contemplation.

(5.) The Records of the Palatinate of Durham.—These Records were surveyed by me in the year 1854, and a Report made upon their state, condition, and history. Further particulars will be found in the Sixteenth Report (I. § 4, App. No. 4). At the period of my Report, the Records were exposed to damage and decay, but the Master of the Rolls had not any space at his disposal to receive them, even if their removal to London should have been deemed advisable.

(6.) The Records of the Palatinate of the Isle of Ely.—On application to the Secretary of the Bishop of Ely, 10th May 1854, that gentleman replied, 5th June 1854, that from inquiries the Bishop had made, he believed there were no secular Records at Ely or Cambridge, but if there were any they must be in the strong room at Ely House, London. But no proceedings were taken, the Master of the Rolls having no space at his disposal.

The Records remaining in the custody or offices of the Clerks of the Assize for the Circuits of the Judges, and the Clerks of the Peace for the various Counties, of England and Wales are not mentioned in the Public Records Act; but I submit to Your Majesty that should proper and sufficient accommodation be provided in this Office, it would be expedient to collect the Documents in question, except, perhaps, within 20 years past. They are curious in an historical as well as in a political point of view. I may mention that in 1856, the Documents in the custody of the Clerk of Assize for the Home Circuit were deposited in Middle Temple Lane, partly in a cupboard on the fourth floor, and partly in a cellar, perishing with damp, and being destroyed by vermin. Among them were the Records of the Home Circuit from the latter end of the reign of Queen Elizabeth, besides a considerable number of Records and Papers relating to State Trials and Special Commissions which, though not belonging to the Circuit, had by some means been deposited with the Clerk of Assize; some of these were connected with the trials for High Treason in Scotland at the latter end of the last century, and in England from that time to 1820, especially with the trials after the rebellion of 1715. The Records were unarranged, and it was very difficult to find a Document that might be required.

This series contains Inquisitions post mortem; Inquisitions ad quod damnum; Inquisitions as to lunatics, idiots, and right of way; Proofs of Age; Assignments of Dower; Extents; Writs of Livery, &c.

The following abbreviations have been used:

Inq. Inquisitio;	Inq. ex off. Inquisitio ex officio;	Melius inquir. Melius inquirendum;
Inq. p. m. Inquisitio post mortem;	B. Breve;	Certior. Certiorari;
Inq. a. q. d. Inquisitio ad quod damnum;	Comm. Commissio;	Prob. ætat. Probatio ætatis.
	Mand. Mandamus;

All entries, in which the word "Flint" is not inserted, refer to Cheshire documents.

Inq. p. m. has been placed in all entries that refer to Inquisitions taken by virtue of the Writ of "Diem clausit extremum;" and also in the few entries which refer to Inquisitions taken after the death of a person, though it could not be ascertained by virtue of what writ.

Besides Inquisitions on Writ of Diem clausit extremum, Inquisitions taken by virtue of the following Writs, viz. Mandamus, Melius inquirendum, Quæ plura, and Devenerunt, were also taken after the death of the persons named in the entries. With few exceptions, the same holds good of Inquisitions ex officio; but Inquisitions taken by virtue of Writs of Capias or Certiorari may or may not be after the death of the persons named in the entries.
